Young and Old Together in Allotment Gardens – Vienna Allotment Garden Award 2026

Allotment gardens are places where people of different generations come together and experience a sense of community. This special role was at the heart of the 29th Vienna Allotment Garden Award, held in 2026 under the theme “The Allotment Garden – Equal Opportunities for Young and Old”.

On 24 October 2026, the most creative entries were honoured at Vienna City Hall. A total of 170 submissions explored how young and old can share and enjoy life in allotment gardens. Around 600 guests attended the festive award ceremony.

The entries reflected the diversity of the competition’s theme. Imaginative handicrafts, such as handmade books and a specially designed board game, illustrated how mutual support, the sharing of experience and fresh ideas can enrich life in allotment gardens.

The accompanying programme also provided opportunities for celebration and personal exchange. The ABBA tribute band ABBAriginal created a lively atmosphere with well-known hits. An exhibition of the award-winning entries, a generous buffet and a tasting organised by the Women’s Group of the Floridsdorf Allotment Gardeners rounded off the festive evening.

Shaping the Future of Allotment Gardens Together

Older association members contribute valuable knowledge and many years of experience, while younger members enrich community life with fresh perspectives and ideas. The Vienna Allotment Garden Award demonstrates how intergenerational projects can encourage this exchange and strengthen community ties. Such initiatives give people of all ages the opportunity to participate actively and help shape the future of their allotment garden associations together.
